NEARLY DONE — Work has been progressing swiftly on the Pickaway County Airport, located just off Route 23 near the Pickaway-Ross County line. The grading work has been nearly completed, and paving is expected to start soon.

Deputy Captures Two Michigan Prison Escapees

The alertness of a Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy resulted in the capture of two convicts who had escaped from Marquette State Prison Farm in Michigan, June 13 and had eluded authorities every since.

Deputy Bill Dountz, in the company of auxiliary Deputy Marvin Widmar, received a report at 6:30 p.m. Saturday of a stalled car on Route 23 just south of County Road 509.

Arriving on the scene, Dountz found two men in the disabled auto and another motorist attempting to help get the auto started.

Becoming suspicious when neither men in the stalled vehicle could produce any identification, Dountz brought them to the sheriff's department for questioning.

INFORMATION gathered from the two subjects was run through the National Crime Information Center and came back with a positive identification of one man as James Russell Campbell, 35, an escapee from the Marquette State Prison Farm in Michigan.

The second man was not immediately identified due to the false information he had given the deputies. They contacted the Marquette Prison authorities who felt he might be Jerold Russell Simpson, 47, another escapee, and supplied the local law enforcement department with a physical description, including scars.

Confronted with this information, Simpson admitted to the identification.

Campbell told Dountz he hid in the woods, surrounding the prison, for four days without food. He finally found a row boat and crossed the edge of Lake Michigan into Zion, Ill. By a strange quirk of fate, he was picked up by Simpson who had stolen a car in Zion. Both men had made separate escapes on June 13 and hid in the woods, neither knowing the other was there. Both men claimed they didn't even know each other in prison.

They made their way into Ohio before being apprehended by Dountz and Widmar on Route 23.

Simpson said the prison uses bloodhound dogs, to foil escapes, and they were the first prisoners to ever elude the bloodhounds in the woods.

SIMPSON is serving a life sentence for first degree murder and a five to 14 year term for forgery. He has been in prison since 1953.

Campbell is serving a three to five year term for indecent liberties with a minor and has served four years.

Both men were in county jail waiting the arrival of Marquette prison authorities.

Rain And Hail Pound South Some Damage

Roof Of Motel Is Ripped Off By High Winds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Overnight storms with high winds, thundershowers and hail battered the South early today after a night of destruction.

Winds up to 60 miles an hour lashed Norfolk and Newport News, Va., Sunday, capsizing small boats and knocking out utility service. Coast Guard headquarters in Portsmouth reported receiving 65 distress calls during the storm and had to dispatch two tug boats to free the Sebago, a 225-foot Coast Guard vessel forced aground.

The roof of a motel in Norfolk was ripped off by high winds causing damage estimated at $100,000. Storm damage to another building in Petersburg about 30 miles south of Richmond was about $125,000.

Baseball-sized hail pounded Brookneal Va. and Atlanta while hail the size of golf balls pelted areas near Richmond and around Jackson Miss.

The Cullman County Ala. sheriff's office reported a tornado in Good Hope, about 30 miles northeast of Birmingham, destroyed 20 buildings.

Eighty-mile-an-hour winds tore the roof off a building and destroyed three planes at the North Jackson-Madison airport in Mississippi.

Tornado watches were issued in the Carolinas as high winds, hail and lightning rumbled across the two states causing some property damage.

One man suffered slight injuries when high winds crumpled a guardhouse at a S.C. Gas and Electric Co. station near Columbia. About 6 inches of rain fell in a 10-hour span at Sumter, S.C., knocking out telephone communications and causing power failures.

Mostly clear skies and seasonal temperatures dominated the rest of the country.

Early morning temperatures varied from 43 at Alpena, Mich., to 95 at Needles, Calif.

Fire Kills 2 Women

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Two women were asphyxiated by smoke from a fire in a couch at their home here Sunday.

The victims were Ann Rizzo, 40, and Pauline G. Kicos. The body of Miss Kicos was found on a stairway and Miss Rizzo was in a bathtub.

Trumbull County Coroner Dr. Joseph Sudimack pronounced the women dead of asphyxiation.

Cause of the fire which was confined to the couch was not determined.

Ann Rizzo is listed in the city directory as manager of the shoe department at Carlisle Allen Co. here and Pauline Kicos is listed as an employee of the Packard Electric Division of the General Motors Corp. in Warren.

Ohio's Crime Rate Zooms Above National Average

U.S. Agents Smash Narcotics Ring

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, elated by mass arrests stemming from what he called "the biggest operation of its kind," hints federal agents are planning more attacks on organized trafficking in narcotics.

Mitchell indicated more is to come in announcing Sunday that 190 persons, mostly Cuban refugees, had been named in complaints or warrants as part of what officials said was a ring controlling most of the cocaine and a large share of the heroin traffic in the United States.

The Justice Department said early today 137 persons had been arrested in 10 cities as part of Operation Eagle, the code name for a six-month undercover investigation that culminated in weekend raids across the nation.

Two of those arrested were critically wounded by federal agents—one in New York, the other in Miami.

While personally disclosing developments at a swiftly called news conference Sunday, Mitchell gave much of the credit for Operation Eagle to legal wire tap provisions.

He also pointed to the shooting incidents as fresh support for his stand that Congress should pass President Nixon's anticrime proposal providing no-knock entry. "It would have been a great help to us," he said.

The attorney general said the two wounded men were among three men who "resisted when agents announced their presence." Agents shot one man in his home after they said he aimed his weapon at them. The other man was shot in a car by an agent who reported being grabbed on an arm and dragged about 75 feet after the car which agents forced to a curb began pulling away again.

Meanwhile, Mitchell told reporters "quite a few" operations of the scope of the one climaxed during the weekend can be launched within a year.

Asked if there are more coming, he replied with one word: "Undoubtedly." When questioned if they would be coming soon, he responded again with just one word: "Hopefully."

The attorney general said Operation Eagle was aimed at diminishing "the flow of hard narcotics into and within the United States."

"By concentrating the federal enforcement on the sources—that is, wholesalers and distributors," he said.

FBI Figures Show Major Cities Worst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio's crime rate is soaring at a faster rate than the national average, an FBI report issued today indicates.

Crime has jumped 13 per cent across the nation during the first three months of 1970 compared with the same period last year. The report says Ohio's major cities show an average increase of 40 per cent in murders and 30 per cent in robberies.

The quarterly Uniform Crime Report singled out suburbs and rural areas as having the greatest percentage crime rate increases with suburbs up 18 per cent and rural areas 19. Geographically, the report said the north central and southern U.S. had shown the most marked crime rises, particularly crimes of violence and robbery. Ohio was included in the north central grouping.

Cleveland continued to lead all other cities in the state in the number of crimes committed, but Canton showed the greatest percentage increases with more than two times the robberies reported in the first three months of 1969.

Homicides in Canton jumped from one in 1969 to four for the first quarter of this year; rapes rose from two to eight; and robbery counts went from 38 in 1969 to 72 so far this year. Aggravated assaults in the city declined from 29 to 23.

The safest city in the state during the months of January, February and March was Akron.

Akron murders dropped from seven to three; robberies were 204, a decrease of five over the 1969 reading; and aggravated assaults had dropped to 92 from 99. The FBI figures showed only rape among the major crimes increased in Akron. For the first three months of last year, there were 20 rapes reported. This year there have been 24.

Crime comparisons for the three months periods in the other major cities examined in the report were:

CINCINNATI—Murder —up from 13 to 14; Rape—up from 39 to 44; Robbery—up from 185 to 232; Assault—up from 150 to 170.

CLEVELAND—Murder —up from 13 to 14; Rape—up from 39 to 44; Robbery—up from 185 to 232; Assault—up from 150 to 170.

Battles In Vietnam Increase As Cambodian War Drops

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese today reported their hardest weekend of fighting in Vietnam in more than two months, but enemy pressure eased across Cambodia and U.S. troops began their major withdrawal from border areas.

South Vietnamese forces claimed a Mekong Delta victory Saturday in which 700 enemy were killed, and said 40 more were slain in two battles Sunday in the same region.

Action involving American units tapered off after an upsurge of sharp fighting which helped to push the enemy toll for the weekend past 220.

The U.S. Command disclosed that portions of two battalions of the 1st Air Cavalry Division's 2nd Brigade began moving back across the border into South Vietnam today, with more expected to move Tuesday.

The movement, involving several hundreds of troops, marked the beginning of the American pullout from Cambodia that is scheduled to be completed by a week from Tuesday, the June 30 deadline set by President Nixon. Some 9,700 Americans were still across the border when the withdrawal began, military sources said.

Farther west in Cambodia, Communist forces relaxed their pressure on the long-embattled provincial capital of Kompong Thom, 80 miles north of Phnom Penh, but it appeared that both sides were taking a breather before what might be a showdown battle.

North Vietnamese troops had captured about half of the battered town on Saturday and were holding on despite continuous hammering by South Vietnamese planes and helicopters flying in support of the Cambodian ground troops. But a Cambodian spokesman in Phnom Penh said the fighting had died down today, and most of the North Vietnamese had pulled out of the town.

Kompong Thom has been isolated for more than a month, and the enemy force there apparently is being reinforced and resupplied. Other Communist units in Cambodia also are believed awaiting replacements and supplies to come down through Laos.

Kompong Thom is in the center of what Cambodian officials now describe as a military front stretching from Kompong Cham on the Mekong River, northwest to Siem Reap and the historic temples of Angkor.

The spokesmen say two North Vietnamese divisions are deployed along this 150-mile line.

Ecuador Gets Dictatorship

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — President Jose Velasco Ibarra took dictatorial powers Sunday night after a week of street fighting between students of Quito's Central University and police. Some fighting was reported on the campus early today, and shooting could be heard there through the night.

The official reason for the takeover was an imminent Supreme Court ruling declaring presidential law decrees unconstitutional. But observers believed the real reason was the student "rebellion" against the government.

Velasco Ibarra's assumption of dictatorial powers was said to have the full support of the military, and it was believed the real strongman in the new dictatorship regime is the president's nephew, Defense Minister Jorge Acosta Velasco.

The army launched a sweeping roundup of leftist leaders, and paratroopers occupied the campuses of colleges throughout the nation of 5.5 million. One of the leftist leaders ordered arrested was Vice President Jorge Acosta Velasco whose whereabouts were not known.

Among those arrested was Manuel Aguirre, the rector of Central University. Two days ago, Aguirre led some 15,000 students in a meeting on the university's campus to protest the terrorist bombing of the university printing shop. Aguirre and the students maintained that army paratroopers were responsible for the attack.

Classes Resume At Kent State

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Classes resumed at Kent State University today for the first time since the May 4 shooting deaths of four students. The campus was quiet and security provisions were relaxed.

Officials said 7,603 students, including a large number of public school teachers attending classes during their vacations, signed up for summer classes last Friday and Saturday. They said the figure was about average, though higher than last summer's 7,435 students.

Jackson Man Slain

JACKSON, Ohio (AP)—Forty-five-year-old William Coyan, chief electrician for the city of Jackson, was shot and killed early Sunday in an all-night restaurant west of the city. Police are holding a suspect.

Oil Refinery Fire Finally Extinguished

FRANKLIN, Pa. (AP) — A weekend fire at the Witco Chemical Co.'s Amalie refinery raged more than 30 hours, killed three men and destroyed more than a million gallons of fuel and lubricants.

Refinery Manager L. C. Borrell said about 20 to 40 per cent of the multimillion-dollar facility's production capacity was destroyed by the fire, which began after a series of explosions Friday.

By the time the flames were extinguished Saturday, crumpled hunks of blackened steel were all that remained of about 40 storage tanks. They had contained oil, gasoline and highly volatile naphtha.

Firemen were called back to the scene Sunday when a small storage tank exploded.

The charred body of David Depugh, a volunteer fireman from nearby Cornplanter, was found Saturday along U.S. 322, which runs through the center of the refinery.

The bodies of the other two victims, both refinery workers, were found Sunday in the area where the first explosion is believed to have occurred. They were Kenneth Dunlap and William Wolford, both of Franklin.

Fourteen persons were injured in the fire. Three remained in critical condition at hospitals.

Lucian Leda, a Witco official, said the cause of the initial explosion was still under investigation.

Solons Linked With Attempt To Defraud

Marine Asks Military Judge In Murder Case

NEW YORK (AP) — Reliable sources say a Baltimore grand jury report names five members of Congress and a former senator as figuring in a case involving alleged attempts by a contractor to defraud the government, the New York Times reports.

The grand jury report—called a presentment—has not been made public.

The Times quoted the sources as saying the presentment accused Baltimore contractor Victor H. Frenkil of trying to exert pressure on employees of the Office of the Architect of the Capitol to settle a $5 million claim.

One result of the grand jury inquiry was a struggle between Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and then-U.S. Atty. Stephen H. Sachs over whether to make the presentment public, the Times said.

Mitchell forbade Sachs to use the names of the congressmen in any case against Frenkil, reportedly believing that because the public figures were not being indicted their reputations would suffer unjust damage, the Times said.

Sachs held that the officials had to be named to make the government's case against Frenkil, the Times said.

The six political figures the sources reported named by the grand jury were Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, former Sen. Daniel Brewster of Maryland, and Reps. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, House Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts and Samuel N. Friedel and Clarence Long of Maryland, the newspaper said. All are Democrats. They figured in varying degrees of prominence in the case, the paper said.

The grand jury presentment stemmed from a year-long investigation into the activities of Frenkil, president of Baltimore Contractors, Inc., the firm that built the parking garage for the Rayburn House Office Building in Washington.

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the Senate battle over Cambodia, President Nixon once again is being opposed by a band of Republican rebels who have turned a casual weekly get-together into an influential political bloc.

Known informally as the "Wednesday Luncheon Group," they are a loose-knit, leaderless faction with a flexible membership that hovers around a dozen.

Each week they drift together in the office of a member who sometimes may forget its his turn to be host, if indeed he has even been told.

There with increasing frequency these Republicans are finding it easier to swallow the Capitol's chancy luncheon fare than the policies of their President.

Although called liberal-moderates by most people, they are a divergent group. The membership ranges from James Pearson who must keep a watchful eye on his conservative base in Kansas, to Charles Goodell of New York, noted for his Edwardian suits, collar-length hair and ultra-liberal politics.

They don't always agree over their weekly sandwiches, sherbert and coffee. Or even afterward when newsmen ask what they talked about.

But when the smoke clears, the rhetoric dies and the votes are counted they nearly always end up on the same side of the tally sheet.

"We are not a monolithic group," says Oregon's Mark Hatfield, "but we have commonality."

Their commonality has been a major factor in the closest and most important Senate votes of the past year. It has also been a force within the Senate's 43-member Republican caucus where the Wednesday Luncheon Group can claim, with some justification, to be the power brokers.

"I don't know about those guys," says Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, a leading conservative Republican spokesman. "They don't have many votes. But they sure win a lot."

Members of the Wednesday Group themselves shy away from the word "power." There is evidence the White House consistently ignores their advice.

But they are not modest about their significant role in blocking revival of the old GOP-Southern Democratic juggernaut that once ruled Congress. Despite the election of a Republican president, the old coalition is but a rusting hulk.

"In the sociopolitical area, in a close controversy, we can make the difference and have made the difference," says Hatfield. "But we don't see ourselves in a power role. Our basic psyche is broadening the base of the Republican party."

Besides Hatfield, Pearson and Goodell the Wednesday Luncheon Group includes Jacob K. Javits of New York, Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, William B. Saxbe of Ohio, Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland, Charles Percy of Illinois and John Sherman Cooper and Marlow W. Cook both of Kentucky.

Because there are no minutes, no rules and never a formal vote, the membership roll is somewhat uncertain. All 12 rarely show up at the same time. Usually it's only eight or nine and sometimes less.

Asked to name the whole group, several members immediately said there were 14 and then proceeded to name just 12.

Marlow Cook, who has backed the administration more than any other member, refuses to talk about the group. "He's mad at everything, including us," says another member.

Cook sided with the administration.

Rain And Hail Pound South Some Damage

Roof Of Motel Is Ripped Off By High Winds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Overnight storms with high winds, thundershowers and hail battered the South early today after a night of destruction.

Winds up to 60 miles an hour lashed Norfolk and Newport News, Va., Sunday, capsizing small boats and knocking out utility service. Coast Guard headquarters in Portsmouth reported receiving 65 distress calls during the storm and had to dispatch two tug boats to free the Sebago, a 225-foot Coast Guard vessel forced aground.

The roof of a motel in Norfolk was ripped off by high winds causing damage estimated at $100,000. Storm damage to another building in Petersburg about 30 miles south of Richmond was about $125,000.

Baseball-sized hail pounded Brookneal Va. and Atlanta while hail the size of golf balls pelted areas near Richmond and around Jackson Miss.

The Cullman County Ala. sheriff's office reported a tornado in Good Hope, about 30 miles northeast of Birmingham, destroyed 20 buildings.

Eighty-mile-an-hour winds tore the roof off a building and destroyed three planes at the North Jackson-Madison airport in Mississippi.

Tornado watches were issued in the Carolinas as high winds, hail and lightning rumbled across the two states causing some property damage.

One man suffered slight injuries when high winds crumpled a guardhouse at a S.C. Gas and Electric Co. station near Columbia. About 6 inches of rain fell in a 10-hour span at Sumter, S.C., knocking out telephone communications and causing power failures.

Mostly clear skies and seasonal temperatures dominated the rest of the country.

Akron murders dropped from seven to three; robberies were 204, a decrease of five over the 1969 reading; and aggravated assaults had dropped to 92 from 99. The FBI figures showed only rape among the major crimes increased in Akron. For the first three months of last year, there were 20 rapes reported. This year there have been 24. Crime comparisons for the three months periods in the other major cities examined in the report were:

CINCINNATI—Murder —up from 13 to 14; Rape—up from 39 to 44; Robbery—up from 185 to 232; Assault—up from 150 to 170.

Oil Refinery Fire Finally Extinguished

FRANKLIN, Pa. (AP) — A weekend fire at the Witco Chemical Co.'s Amalie refinery raged more than 30 hours, killed three men and destroyed more than a million gallons of fuel and lubricants.

Refinery Manager L. C. Borrell said about 20 to 40 per cent of the multimillion-dollar facility's production capacity was destroyed by the fire, which began after a series of explosions Friday.

By the time the flames were extinguished Saturday, crumpled hunks of blackened steel were all that remained of about 40 storage tanks. They had contained oil, gasoline and highly volatile naphtha.

Firemen were called back to the scene Sunday when a small storage tank exploded.

The charred body of David Depugh, a volunteer fireman from nearby Cornplanter, was found Saturday along U.S. 222, which runs through the center of the refinery.

The bodies of the other two victims, both refinery workers, were found Sunday in the area where the first explosion is believed to have occurred. They were Kenneth Dunlap and William Wolford, both of Franklin.

Fourteen persons were injured in the fire. Three remained in critical condition at hospitals.

Lucian Leda, a Witco official, said the cause of the initial explosion was still under investigation.

Saxbe, GOP Solons Hold Power Balance In Senate

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In the Senate battle over Cambodia, President Nixon once again is being opposed by a band of Republican rebels who have turned a casual weekly get-together into an influential political bloc.

Known informally as the "Wednesday Luncheon Group," they are a loose-knit, leaderless faction with a flexible membership that hovers around a dozen.

Each week they drift together in the office of a member who sometimes may forget its his turn to be host, if indeed he has even been told.

There with increasing frequency these Republicans are finding it easier to swallow the Capitol's chancy luncheon fare than the policies of their President.

Although called liberal moderates by most people, they are a divergent group. The membership ranges from James Pearson who must keep a watchful eye on his conservative base in Kansas, to Charles Goodell of New York, noted for his Edwardian suits, collar-length hair and ultra-liberal politics.

They don't always agree over their weekly sandwiches, sherry and coffee. Or even afterward when newsmen ask what they talked about.

But when the smoke clears, the rhetoric dies and the votes are counted they nearly always end up on the same side of the tally sheet.

"We are not a monolithic group," says Oregon's Mark Hatfield, "but we have commonality."

Their commonality has been a major factor in the closest and most important Senate votes of the past year. It has also been a force within the Senate's 43-member Republican caucus where the Wednesday Luncheon Group can claim, with some justification, to be the power brokers.

"I don't know about those guys," says Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, a leading conservative Republican spokesman. "They don't have many votes. But they sure win a lot."

Members of the Wednesday Group themselves shy away from the word "power." There is evidence the White House consistently ignores their advice.

But they are not modest about their significant role in blocking revival of the old GOP-Southern Democratic juggernaut that once ruled Congress. Despite the election of a Republican president, the old coalition is but a rusting hulk.

"In the sociopolitical area, in a close controversy, we can make the difference and have made the difference," says Hatfield. "But we don't see ourselves in a power role. Our basic psyche is broadening the base of the Republican party."

Besides Hatfield, Pearson and Goodell the Wednesday Luncheon Group includes Jacob K. Javits of New York, Edward Brooke of Massachusetts, William B. Saxbe of Ohio, Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland, Charles Percy of Illinois and John Sherman Cooper and Marlow W. Cook both of Kentucky.

Because there are no minutes, no rules and never a formal vote, the membership roll is somewhat uncertain. All 12 rarely show up at the same time. Usually it's only eight or nine and sometimes less.

Asked to name the whole group, several members immediately said there were 14 and then proceeded to name just 12.

Marlow Cook, who has backed the administration more than any other member, refuses to talk about the group. "He's mad at everything, including us," says another member.

Accident Claim Before Jury

A New Holland man is seeking nearly $37,000 damages in a civil trial being heard in the Common Pleas Court of Pickaway County Monday.

Ten men and two women were selected to make up the jury hearing evidence on the case filed by Robert A. Dennis, Route 1, New Holland against the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and Charles T. Garner, of Hialeahville, Ga. Dennis claims Garner's semi-trailer rig went right of the center line on Route 22, knocking Dennis' farm truck off the road into a field. He is asking judgment in the amount of $36,862.72 for permanent personal injuries and damages to his truck.

The Lockheed Corporation and Garner deny Dennis' charge and allege the Pickaway County farmer was responsible for the accident, crossing left of center. The collision occurred Aug. 21, 1968 just outside New Holland corporation limits.

TOLEDO—Murder —up from three to five; Rape—up from 17 to 22; Robbery—up from 164 to 172; Assault—down from 78 to 70.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said the "slowdown trend" in violent crimes—murder, robbery, rape and assault—was particularly evident in cities with 250,000 or more population.

But property crimes—burglary, auto theft, and larceny of $50 or more—went up faster than before.

The FBI said reports of violent crimes in all areas of the nation were up 12 per cent in the first three months of the year compared with the same period last year. It said the rate of increase in first-quarter 1969 had been 15 per cent, for a drop in the rate of increase this year of 3 per cent.

In the 58 cities with 250,000 or more population, the first-quarter rate of increase was 17 per cent last year and 10 per cent this year, for a drop of 7 per cent.

However, first-quarter property crimes were up 13 per cent this year and 10 per cent last year—a rise in the rate of increase of three percentage points.

Over-all, crime was up 8 per cent in cities over 250,000, 18 per cent in suburbs and 19 per cent in rural areas.

utors of narcotics—we believe we can interrupt the supply lines sufficiently to curtail addiction particularly among our young," he said.

Mitchell insisted Operation Eagle "would have been impossible" without the provisions for court-approved wiretapping as contained in the 1968 Crime Control Act. He said such "court-approved electronic surveillances" were on telephones in Miami, Chicago and New York.

"We still need more help. We still need the narcotics legislation which is before the House of Representatives," Mitchell continued.

"The Senate . . . has passed the bill and we need swift House approval so that President Nixon can sign it into law and we can begin using it against the suppliers of narcotics."

The officials figured the alleged distribution ring attacked in Operation Eagle handled about 75 to 80 per cent of the flow and distribution of cocaine in the United States and 30 per cent of the heroin-movement activity. They said the Miami-based ring obtained the heroin from the Middle East and the cocaine from Latin America.

About 33 pounds of cocaine and heroin—which Mitchell said is valued at $259,000 on the wholesale market and worth at least 10 times that in retail prices charged addicts—plus 14 weapons, 23 cars and about $20,000 in cash were seized during simultaneous raids Saturday night and Sunday.

He also said undercover agents, during the investigation that started last January, had obtained an additional 66 pounds of cocaine and heroin as they obtained evidence in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Miami.

tration when the group, only just beginning to form first showed its muscle in last year's battle over antimissile ABM defense. The White House won that one by a single vote.

Hardened in a fall fight over party leadership—in which it backed the winners of the two top spots—the group went on to spell the difference in these major defeats for President Nixon: —The Supreme Court nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., rejected 55-45 in November.

—The Supreme Court nomination of G. Harrold Carswell, rejected 51-45 in April.

—The so-called Byrd amendment that would have given President Nixon a free hand in Indochina, defeated 52-47 this month.

Power groups and alliances are nothing new in Congress. It's the name of the game.

One of the most effective was House Speaker Sam Rayburn's Board of Education which reached full maturity in the 1950s after a former pupil, Lyndon Johnson, became Senate majority leader.

Another alliance that is growing in effectiveness is the Democratic Study Group in the House, although it has never been able to use its strength to elect a party leader of its own.

The Wednesday Group in the Senate differs greatly from these. A shapeless, leaderless force with a shifting membership, it has made its mark by effectively opposing a President of its own party.

At the same time, it has not been rigid in its actions. On any given issue, the Senate nose counters generally expect Schweiker, Hatfield, Goodell, Brooke, Percy, Case and Javits to vote the liberal position.

But the others—Cooper, Mathias, Cook, Saxbe and Pearson—present a tantalizing chance to pick up votes for the administration. Although that practically never happens, it has kept President Nixon's lieutenants hoping to the last minute and has contributed to the cliff-hanging nature of the past year's biggest battles.

Members of the Wednesday group feel whatever influence they have beyond raw numerical strength stems in part from the loose, informal character.

of influence is "our visibility as a Republican viewpoint that appeals to a broader base of Americans."

"We are not power brokers in the sense of holding seats of power," says Javits. "Whatever power we have comes from being a seedbed of ideas and action with strong influence on other senators."

Despite their success, the group has weaknesses.

"We talk too much. But that's the nature of the business," says Saxbe. "And we lack seniority. Only Case and Javits have any real seniority."

The group also is largely ignored by the White House, although the administration did send practically all its real movers and shakers to one of the luncheon's earlier this year.

"We thought it was a friendly gathering," says Hatfield. But he ruefully concedes that it was just about the last time the White House spoke to them.

"They don't have more influence with the White House because of a well known White House tendency to just write off anybody who won't play it their way," says another influential Republican who is not a member of the group.

COLUMBUS—Murder — up from nine to 14; Rape—up from 51 to 58; Robbery—up from 313 to 383; Assault—up from 150 to 202.

DAYTON—Murder —up from ten to 19; Rape—down from 21 to 13; Robbery—up from 231 to 239; Assault—up from 165 to 188.

TOLEDO—Murder — up from three to five; Rape—up from 17 to 22; Robbery—up from 164 to 172; Assault—down from 78 to 70.

Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said the "slowdown trend" in violent crimes—murder, robbery, rape and assault—was particularly evident in cities with 250,000 or more population.

But property crimes—burglary, auto theft, and larceny of $50 or more—went up faster than before.

The FBI said reports of violent crimes in all areas of the nation were up 12 per cent in the first three months of the year compared with the same period last year. It said the rate of increase in first-quarter 1969 had been 15 per cent, for a drop in the rate of increase this year of 3 per cent.

In the 58 cities with 250,000 or more population, the first-quarter rate of increase was 17 per cent last year and 10 per cent this year, for a drop of 7 per cent.

However, first-quarter property crimes were up 13 per cent this year and 10 per cent last year—a rise in the rate of increase of three percentage points.

Overall, crime was up 8 per cent in cities over 250,000, 18 per cent in suburbs and 19 per cent in rural areas.

Bowles was handed a $150 fine, sentenced to three days in jail and had his drivers license suspended for six months. 15-Year-Old Struck By Automobile

Jeff Carithers, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton C. Carithers, 561 Plaza Drive, was struck by an automobile at 7:49 a.m. today on North Pickaway Street.

Driver of the car was Charles W. Shaw, 55, Canal Winchester. Shaw told police he was traveling south on Pickaway and did not see the boy walking across the street.

After striking the youth, Shaw lost control of his car, crashing into a utility pole.

The auto was heavily damaged. Carithers was treated for abrasions and contusions to both elbows, the lower back and left leg at Berger Hospital and was released.

Two-Car Collision Brings Citation

One person was injured and another cited as a result of a two-car accident at 5:10 p.m. Sunday on Route 762 in Scioto Township.

James L. Nunley, 24, Columbus, was cited by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy Lowell Ferguson for being left of center when his auto collided with a car driven by Donald Eugene Stevens, 34, Springfield, injuring Beulah Stevens, 28, Springfield.

She was referred to the doctor for treatment of back injuries. Nunley said he lost control of his auto in a curve, went left of center and hit the Stevens vehicle.

Window Broken

Porter's Dry Cleaners notified the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department a window had been broken in their building on North Court St. sometime Sunday.

tutors of narcotics—we believe we can interrupt the supply lines sufficiently to curtail addiction particularly among our young," he said.

Mitchell insisted Operation Eagle "would have been impossible" without the provisions for court-approved wiretapping as contained in the 1968 Crime Control Act. He said such "court-approved electronic surveillances" were on telephones in Miami, Chicago and New York.

"We still need more help. We still need the narcotics legislation which is before the House of Representatives," Mitchell continued.

"The Senate ... has passed the bill and we need swift House approval so that President Nixon can sign it into law and we can begin using it against the suppliers of narcotics."

The officials figured the alleged distribution ring attacked in Operation Eagle handled about 75 to 80 per cent of the flow and distribution of cocaine in the United States and 30 per cent of the heroin movement activity. They said the Miami-based ring obtained the heroin from the Middle East and the cocaine from Latin America.

About 33 pounds of cocaine and heroin—which Mitchell said is valued at $259,000 on the wholesale market and worth at least 10 times that in retail prices charged addicts—plus 14 weapons, 23 cars and about $20,000 in cash were seized during simultaneous raids Saturday night and Sunday.

He also said undercover agents, during the investigation that started last January, had obtained an additional 66 pounds of cocaine and heroin as they obtained evidence in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Miami.

tration when the group, only just beginning to form first showed its muscle in last year's battle over antimissile ABM defense. The White House won that one by a single vote.

Hardened in a fall fight over party leadership—in which it backed the winners of the two top spots—the group went on to spell the difference in these major defeats for President Nixon:

—The Supreme Court nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., rejected 55-45 in November.

—The Supreme Court nomination of G. Harrold Carswell, rejected 51-45 in April.

—The so-called Byrd amendment that would have given President Nixon a free hand in Indochina, defeated 52-47 this month.

Power groups and alliances are nothing new in Congress. It's the name of the game.

One of the most effective was House Speaker Sam Rayburn's Board of Education which reached full maturity in the 1950s after a former pupil, Lyndon Johnson, became Senate majority leader.

Another alliance that is growing in effectiveness is the Democratic Study Group in the House, although it has never been able to use its strength to elect a party leader of its own.

The Wednesday Group in the Senate differs greatly from these. A shapeless, leaderless force with a shifting membership, it has made its mark by effectively opposing a President of its own party.

At the same time, it has not been rigid in its actions. On any given issue, the Senate nose counters generally expect Schweiker, Hatfield, Goodell, Brooke, Percy, Case and Javits to vote the liberal position.

But the others—Cooper, Mathias, Cook, Saxbe and Pearson—present a tantalizing chance to pick up votes for the administration. Although that practically never happens, it has kept President Nixon's lieutenants hoping to the last minute and has contributed to the cliff-hanging nature of the past year's biggest battles.

Members of the Wednesday group feel whatever influence they have beyond raw numerical strength stems in part from the loose, informal character.

Hatfield says another source of influence is "our visibility as a Republican viewpoint that appeals to a broader base of Americans."

"We are not power brokers in the sense of holding seats of power," says Javits. "Whatever power we have comes from being a seedbed of ideas and action with strong influence on other senators."

Despite their success, the group has weaknesses.

"We talk too much. But that's the nature of the business," says Saxbe. "And we lack seniority. Only Case and Javits have any real seniority."

The group also is largely ignored by the White House, although the administration did send practically all its real movers and shakers to one of the luncheons earlier this year. "We thought it was a friendly gathering," says Hatfield. But he ruefully concedes that it was just about the last time the White House spoke to them.

"They don't have more influence the nature of the White House because of a well known White House tendency to just write off anybody who won't play it their way," says another influential Republican who is not a member of the group.

Breast Feeding Theory Faulty

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you ran some letters pertaining to breast-feeding which interested me because I have long held a theory on that subject.

I am convinced that female homosexuality (lesbianism) is caused by breast-feeding. It is a known fact that infants derive an erotic pleasure from breast-feeding. For a boy baby this is natural and good, but for a girl baby to develop an erotic interest in the breast of another female is unnatural and I think leads to lesbianism.

Therefore, it stands to reason that if all girl babies were put on bottles and nipples, and only boy babies were breast-fed, lesbianism could be eliminated.

I am not a doctor, but I have done extensive reading and research on this subject. I am a 39-year-old bachelor and I am not crazy.

BUFFALO THEORIST
DEAR THEORIST: You may not be "crazy," but your theory sounds crazy to me. For thousands of years before the invention of bottles and nipples, all babies were breast-fed. If this caused lesbianism in women, how could the human race have survived with only normal males and lesbians?

Also, how do you account for breast-fed boy babies who turn out to be rip-roaring homosexuals? Sorry, your "theory" doesn't hold water. (Or MILK!)

DEAR ABBY: My mother who lives in another state is a regular churchgoer. She recently sent me a letter she had written anonymously to her pastor. It was placed in an unsealed envelope, addressed, and stamped. She gave me permission to read it and requested that I seal it and mail it from MY town, so it wouldn't have HER hometown postmark on it.

Abby, I read the letter and was astounded at my mother's pettiness. In it she tells the pastor that he should please quit using the word "IRREGARDLESS" in his sermons as there is no such word. And she also points out that he used it in his church bulletins. I would rather not mail this letter for her, and would appreciate your views on the matter.

HER DAUGHTER
DEAR DAUGHTER: Write to your mother and inform her that she is in error because although "IRREGARDLESS" is not considered "good usage," there IS indeed such a word, and it can be found in Webster's dictionary.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for defending "dieters" who try to stick to their diets when they are guests at the table of a friend.

That problem is only too familiar to me because I am allergic to many foods.

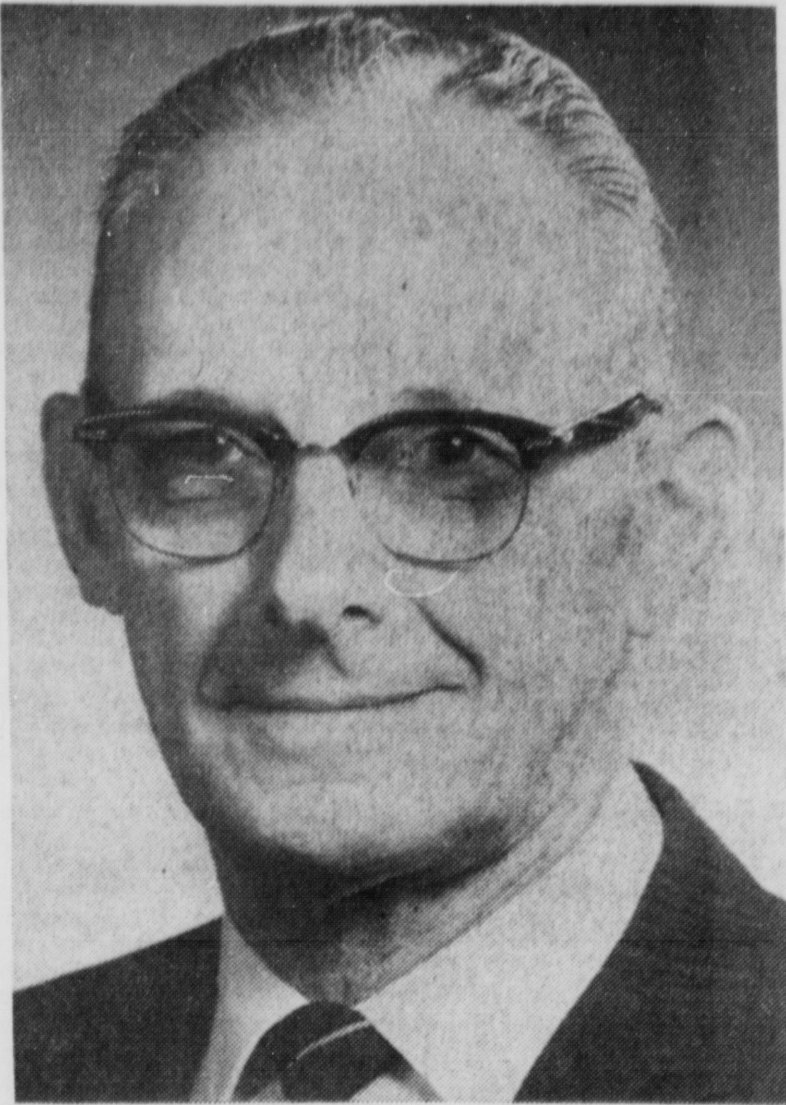

I find it terribly embarrassing when my hostess remarks loudly "Is something the matter with the strawberry shortcake? You haven't even touched it!" (Strawberries give me hives.) The same hostess would never scold a guest she knew was an alcoholic for turning down her wine.

ALLERGIC
DEAR ALLERGIC: You make a good point.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FOR A MORE SEVERE CENSORSHIP" IN YONKERS: I agree, there is an excess of garbage passing for "literature" these days, but this is what one great American champion of human rights had to say about "censorship" 165 years ago:

I am mortified to be told that, in the United States of America, a question about the sale of a book can be carried before the civil magistrate. Are we to have a censor whose imprimatur shall say what books may be sold and what we may buy? Shall a layman, simple as ourselves, set up his reason as the rule for what we are to read? It is an insult to our citizens to question whether they are rational beings or not."

Punishing Hijackers

The pilot of the TWA jetliner who was wounded in foiling a hijack attempt urges stronger penalties for air pirates in hope of "keeping these people from returning to society."

On the same day the TWA plane was hijacked, a federal judge in Miami sentenced another hijacker to two years in prison and recommended his immediate parole on the ground he already had served eight months in custody.

Hijacking a plane is akin to, and worse than, robbery on the ground. The severity of the crime springs not so much from what is stolen as from the belief that people should not be put in fear of their lives.

The human terror generated by a gunman 30,000 feet in the sky — this cruel, contemptuous treatment of fellow human beings — similarly ought to serve as a reason for dealing severely with air pirates. At a time when the authorities are groping for some means of preventing hijacking, their goal is not going to be served by misplaced judicial leniency.

Running Courts

Judges, lawyers and legislators concerned over congested court calendars will watch with interest a new course for the training of court administrators which was begun this month at the University of Denver.

The course was established under Ford Foundation financing after Chief Justice Burger warned that creation of a corps of court administrators was essential to free judges for their "primary professional duty of judging."

Court administration, as distinct from the purely judicial function — of the courts, is a relatively new development. It is hoped professionally trained administrators will be able to provide one means for meeting the growing amount of litigation in both federal and state courts.

In allowing judges more time for their basic function, court administration, developed and refined at the university level, could prove to be a useful addition to the nation's legal system.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Investment notes:

Should American investors who have taken a beating in stocks now seek solace in drink? The suggestion is implied in a letter from Andrew Macdonald Ltd. of London, dealers in whisky.

Overproduction, Macdonald says, has caused Scotch prices to fall very low, "not anything like you have seen on the American stock market," but still so low "it has become embarrassing to quote them."

But therein may be an investment opportunity.

Without so much as a by-your-leave to IBM or Xerox, Macdonald advises: "On a comparison between whisky and any stock on the American market, whisky emerges as the greatest runner of all times, with the highest growth potential."

Now it happens that Macdonald, with an instinct old as hereditarily, caught away a considerable amount of mature spirits.

"We can make a certain quantity of these stocks available to those clients who are interested in cashing in once the goods are 8 years old, as well as to those interested in purchasing Scotch whisky for capital growth . . ."

The idea, Macdonald says, is simply to hold on for a while. "There has always been a shortage of mature whisky of the older age groups, that is, 8 years and older," he explains.

To illustrate, the company includes a chart showing that prices rise sharply as the whisky is aged longer. Most whisky is used up when it is only 4 years old. That means a shortage of 10-year-old spirits. And so the upward pressure on prices.

Almost everywhere in the United States the prices of improved home sites have risen sharply during the past decade. Anyone who has had to purchase a lot can verify that statement—at least for his own area.

The increase may have slowed a bit in the past couple of years because of a depressed housing market, but the percentages, as compiled by the National Association of Home Builders, are still impressive.

In 1960, a typical improved home site—streets, sewers, utilities included—sold for $2,579 in Charlotte, N.C. In 1969, a comparable site sold for $7,050, an increase of 173 per cent.

Sites in Denver, already high back in 1960, rose from $4,106 to $5,748, a gain of 40 per cent, one of the lowest found in the survey. Will the 1976 winter Olympics in Denver push up those prices? It could have some effect.

Among 100 per cent gainers were Boston from $3,694 to $9,106, or 147 per cent; St. Paul from $2,550 to $5,592, or 119; Lafayette, Calif., $5,090 to $11,134, or 119; Dayton, Ohio, $3,589 to $7,722, or 115 per cent.

In Washington D.C., sites rose 113 per cent to $9,268 from $4,353, in Baton Rouge, La., to $6,340 from $3,210, or 98 per cent, and in Little Rock, Ark., to $3,416 from $2,769 or 69 per cent.

The recent stock market decline is generally considered to be the worst since the Great Depression of the 1930s, with the Dow Jones Industrial Average off 36 per cent and the N.Y. Stock Exchange average off 38 per cent.

Since fearless investors now consider the big drop over, they are able to face other evidence that confirms this as the worst since the big crash and the 10 years or so that followed.

—The ratio of per share price to current earnings dropped to 11.63, meaning investors were willing to pay no more than 11 or 12 times earnings for their stocks. Shares that earned $3 dropped, on average, to less than $36. In December 1961 the ratio was 25.3, meaning that same stock sold for 75.90.

—The ratio of price to current dividends hit a low of 19.60 on May 26. Compare that with a price ratio of 34.78 on Feb. 9, 1966.

—The ratio of price to shareholders' equity plunged to 1.15, meaning shareholders were willing to pay only $1.15 for each dollar of invested corporate capital. In 1966 they willingly paid $2.20 for the comparable product.

Hearings Continued On Passenger Service

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission continued hearings on Penn Central's plan to discontinue 34 east-west passenger trains in sessions today at the Ohio State University College of Law here.

Penn Central says it wants to discontinue the service because it is losing money—nearly $3.5 million last year on the six passenger trains serving Columbus. The railroad said an average of six persons a day ride each train to or from Columbus.

Speaking Of You Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Can too much sun cause skin cancer or early wrinkling of the skin?

Mrs. J. T. W., Tennessee Dear Mrs. W.: Concern about two such widely different problems cannot be bunched together. In one instance, the serious danger to health involved in cancer of the skin must be considered. The other, wrinkling of the skin, is, of course, a matter of vanity.

Personally I believe that too many people have been unnecessarily frightened by newspaper and magazine articles that have not had the stamp of authority of dermatologists.

These skin specialists need a tremendous amount of training to be able to recognize, almost at a glance, the hundreds of skin conditions that may or may not be serious. More and more specialists are suggesting the possibility that intense overexposure to the ultraviolet rays of the sun can produce severe burns and may be responsible for cancer of the skin.

Concern and fear have deprived many people of the pleasure of sun-bathing because of these imposed "statistics." Some people with dark-pigmented skin can tolerate long exposure to the sun without danger; others with pale, translucent skin are overexposed by even a few minutes of the sun's rays.

Unless there is any special advice by the doctor, sun-bathing in moderation gives many people a "glow" of good health.

The problem of wrinkling has been studied for years, and the general feeling is that overexposure to sunlight dries the skin and causes other changes that hasten the aging process. In addition, the brown liver spots that come out during middle age are attributed to the sun. These are known as lentigines.

There you have the calculated risk of exposure to the sun. I believe that fear should not deter sun-bathing. Only if your doctor specifically suggests that there is an extra hazard should it be avoided. As for wrinkles, you must balance advantages against disadvantages and come to a conclusion free of anxiety.

A safety factor can be added by using some of the better creams and lotions that act as protective filters against sunburn without interfering with tanning. Starting exposure for a few minutes and increasing it at regular intervals can prevent painful burns.

Although you did not ask, I believe that some misconceptions about the sun should be included. Too often severe burns can follow an afternoon at the beach even though there seemed to be protection from an umbrella. Beware: The sun bouncing off the sand can be deceptive and can produce intense burns.

Aluminum sun reflectors, much used by greedy sun worshippers, double or triple the intensity of the sun's rays and can cause intense burns of the skin and are dangerous to the uncovered eyes. Personally, I enjoy the sun and its psychological value for me is greater than any damage that wrinkling could do to my vanity.

Don't devote your life to the accumulation of possessions. They can become a heavy burden.

Operation Watchdog

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

New Haven, Conn. — Brabner Smith, a friend whose business takes him to the Far East, comes back from Indonesia, Singapore and other Southeast Asian countries on Vietnam's periphery, and tells of a great surge of confidence in both the power and the beneficent purposes of the U.S. that followed out of the Cambodian operation. And our oldest son, Chris, who ran a helicopter port in the Third Corps Area north of Saigon, returns from a year's tour of Vietnamese duty and reports that "you have to see the stuff captured in Cambodia to believe it — the operation was a great success." The "stuff," according to Chris, would have caused "untold destruction" if it had been left in North Vietnamese and Viet Cong hands.

So, armed with two opinions from the greater world, I joined my class last week for a forty-fifth reunion in the much narrower world of Yale. Every effort at explanation of the undergraduate mood, which might be described as summary pacifism, was put forth by an embattled Administration that had been heckled all spring by what Yale's president, Kingman Brewster, has called his "second front," the alumni. The undergraduates, or at least the more vocal of them, had been uptight about two issues. The first was justice for the Black Panthers in the upcoming local trial of Bobby Seale and the other Panthers who have been accused of killing their colleague Alex Rackley; the second was the Cambodian "invasion," which the students have insisted was "immoral," an incursion into a "neutral" country.

As a defender of the First Amendment, I would be the last to try to deprive the students of their peaceful voice on any subject. But what many of us were interested to know was whether Yale had become a closed forum, responsive to only one side, the Leftist side, in the social arguments that have been wracking the nation. An early effort had been made by the Yale Administration to have undergraduates visit the various reunion headquarters, even to the extent of living in with the alumni for a three-day period, to tell about the campus mentality.

Naturally, it was easy to suspect an attempted whitewash: the hospitality suites set up for the May 1 protesters demonstrators and the visit of the "thousand Yalies" to Washington under President Brewster's leadership to lobby for the Fulbright point of view would be explained as "personal" and not involving any "institutional" cachet. (Yale, like other universities, would hate to lose its tax-exempt status by seeming to engage in politics.) Whether our suspicions were justified, however, it was encouraging to discover that an active minority is at work at Yale to keep the university from becoming a politicized closed society.

Stewart Alsop, reporting in Newsweek on his visit to Yale in early May, spoke of the "wholly closed" minds he encountered. Students were living, not by rational discussion, "but by mindless slogans" such as "Free the Panthers" and "Stop the killing in Asia." If the sloganeering dominated the local scene on May Day, however, it was less evident in June. Two sides of the "social question" were heard at a Sprague Hall seminar — albeit the organizer of something called "Operation Watchdog," a lucid young man named Tom Slater (class of 1972) who heads the Young Republicans on the campus, said he had obtained permission to be part of a cross-university panel only forty-five minutes before the talks to the Old Grads began.

"Operation Watchdog" got its point of view over to the Old Grads in some very effective pamphlets. President Brewster had justified opening the residential colleges to the Panther supporters on pragmatic grounds: if this hadn't been done, Yale might have been burned or dynamited by frustrated visiting demonstrators. Since Brewster is responsible to the alumni and his corporation for the physical safety of the university plant, there was a short-term excuse for his tactics. They undoubtedly made for peace and may have saved Yale from becoming a second Kent State. But "Operation Watchdog" objects quite logically that the precedent for the use of the residential colleges as a staging ground and sanctuary for potentially violent street demonstrations has been established.

Next fall at Yale may well witness a resurgence of campus conservatism. "Operation Watchdog" plans a permanent office, with a full-time executive director. "Radicalism" at Yale will be researched and exposed; the alumni will be polled regularly on controversial issues. The SDS will be actively countered. But there are ticklish days ahead for the Black Panther trial in New Haven will probably go on for months. It is hardly likely that there will be genuine peace on the campus for a long time to come.

These skin specialists need a tremendous amount of training to be able to recognize, almost at a glance, the hundreds of skin conditions that may or may not be serious. More and more specialists are suggesting the possibility that intense overexposure to the ultraviolet rays of the sun can produce severe burns and may be responsible for cancer of the skin.

Concern and fear have deprived many people of the pleasure of sun-bathing because of these imposed "statistics." Some people with dark-pigmented skin can tolerate long exposure to the sun without danger; others with pale, translucent skin are overexposed by even a few minutes of the sun's rays.

Unless there is any special advice by the doctor, sun-bathing in moderation gives many people a "glow" of good health.

The problem of wrinkling has been studied for years, and the general feeling is that overexposure to sunlight dries the skin and causes other changes that hasten the aging process. In addition, the brown liver spots that come out during middle age are attributed to the sun. These are known as lentigines.

There you have the calculated risk of exposure to the sun. I believe that fear should not deter sun-bathing. Only if your doctor specifically suggests that there is an extra hazard should it be avoided. As for wrinkles, you must balance advantages against disadvantages and come to a conclusion free of anxiety.

A safety factor can be added by using some of the better creams and lotions that act as protective filters against sunburn without interfering with tanning. Starting exposure for a few minutes and increasing it at regular intervals can prevent painful burns.

Although you did not ask, I believe that some misconceptions about the sun should be included. Too often severe burns can follow an afternoon at the beach even though there seemed to be protection from an umbrella. Beware: The sun bouncing off the sand can be deceptive and can produce intense burns.

Aluminum sun reflectors, much used by greedy sun worshippers, double or triple the intensity of the sun's rays and can cause intense burns of the skin and are dangerous to the uncovered eyes. Personally, I enjoy the sun and its psychological value for me is greater than any damage that wrinkling could do to my vanity.

Don't devote your life to the accumulation of possessions. They can become a heavy burden.

You're Telling Me

Many railroad executives of the future will come from the ranks of women, a speaker tells the annual meeting of the National Association of Railway Business Women. Gotta change that old tune to — "Toot! Toot! Toots, HELLO!"

Yesterday was the beginning of summer. Probably the saddest time of the year — saying goodbye to spring.

Yesterday was also Father's Day — a very Pop-ular holiday. However, that's strictly a family matter.

Husbands drink 10 times as much beer as do their wives, according to a recent survey conducted at the University of Illinois. Which causes Zadok Dumkopi to comment he thought modern wives opened a lot more cans than anyone else.

There are 20,000 species of birds in the world — nature item. As you can imagine, bird-watching is no idle pastime.

Operation Watchdog

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

New Haven, Conn. — Brabner Smith, a friend whose business takes him to the Far East, comes back from Indonesia, Singapore and other Southeast Asian countries on Vietnam's periphery, and tells of a great surge of confidence in both the power and the beneficent purposes of the U.S. that followed out of the Cambodian operation. And our oldest son, Chris, who ran a helicopter port in the Third Corps Area north of Saigon, returns from a year's tour of Vietnamese duty and reports that "you have to see the stuff captured in Cambodia to believe it — the operation was a great success." The "stuff," according to Chris, would have caused "untold destruction" if it had been left in North Vietnamese and Viet Cong hands.

So, armed with two opinions from the greater world, I joined my class last week for a forty-fifth reunion in the much narrower world of Yale. Every effort at explanation of the undergraduate mood, which might be described as summary pacifism, was put forth by an embattled Administration that had been heckled all spring by what Yale's president, Kingman Brewster, has called his "second front," the alumni. The undergraduates, or at least the more vocal of them, had been up tight about two issues. The first was justice for the Black Panthers in the upcoming local trial of Bobby Seale and the other Panthers who have been accused of killing their colleague Alex Rackley; the second was the Cambodian "invasion," which the students have insisted was "immoral," an incursion into a "neutral" country.

As a defender of the First Amendment, I would be the last to try to deprive the students of their peaceful voice on any subject. But what many of us were interested to know was whether Yale had become a closed forum, responsive to only one side, the Leftist side, in the social arguments that have been wracking the nation. An early effort had been made by the Yale Administration to have undergraduates visit the various reunion headquarters, even to the extent of living in with the alumni for a three-day period, to tell about the campus mentality.

Naturally, it was easy to suspect an attempted whitewash: the hospitality suites set up for the May 1 pro-Panther demonstrators and the visit of the "thousand Yalies" to Washington under President Brewster's leadership to lobby for the Fulbright point of view would be explained as "personal" and not involving any "institutional" cachet. (Yale, like other universities, would hate to lose its tax-exempt status by seeming to engage in politics.) Whether our suspicions were justified, however, it was encouraging to discover that an active minority is at work at Yale to keep the university from becoming a politicalized closed society.

Stewart Alsop, reporting in Newsweek on his visit to Yale in early May, spoke of the "wholly closed" minds he encountered. Students were living, not by rational discussion, "but by mindless slogans" such as "Free the Panthers" and "Stop the killing in Asia." If the sloganeering dominated the local scene on May Day, however, it was less evident in June. Two sides of the "social question" were heard at a Sprague Hall seminar — albeit the organizer

Expect 6 Governors At Oil Compact Meeting

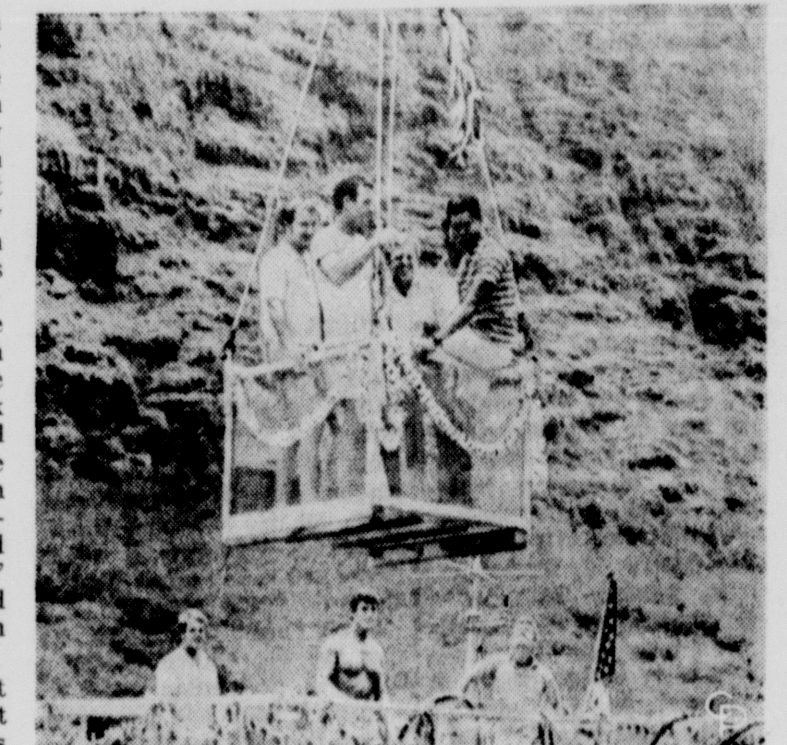

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Six governors are expected to attend the three-day mid-year meeting of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission, which opens here today.

The governors of Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas, Wyoming, Texas and Ohio have said they would be here. The commission is devoted to conservation of oil and natural gas resources and is composed of representatives from 13 states, including Ohio.

of something called "Operation Watchdog," a lucid young man named Tom Slater (class of 1972) who heads the Young Republicans on the campus, said he had obtained permission to be part of a cross-university panel only forty-five minutes before the talks to the Old Grads began.

"Operation Watchdog" got its point of view over to the Old Grads in some very effective pamphlets. President Brewster had justified opening the residential colleges to the Panther supporters on pragmatic grounds: if this hadn't been done, Yale might have been burned or dynamited by frustrated visiting demonstrators. Since Brewster is responsible to the alumni and his corporation for the physical safety of the university plant, there was a short-term excuse for his tactics. They undoubtedly made for "peace" and may have saved Yale from becoming a second Kent State. But "Operation Watchdog" objects quite logically that the "precedent for the use of the residential colleges as a staging ground and sanctuary for potentially violent street demonstrations" has been established. Next fall at Yale may well witness a resurgence of campus conservatism. "Operation Watchdog" plans a permanent office, with a full-time executive director. "Radicalism" at Yale will be researched and exposed; the alumni will be polled regularly on controversial issues. The SDS will be actively countered. But there are ticklish days ahead, for the Black Panther trial in New Haven will probably go on for months. It is hardly likely that there will be genuine peace on the campus for a long time to come.

COMING UP FOR AIR—Six divers are lifted from the under-sea laboratory Aegir two weeks after they entered the vessel to conduct tests on the ocean floor. A malfunction in an air tank kept them at 520 feet beneath the surface for two additional days until repairs could be made. All the divers were pronounced in good condition in Honolulu.

Lukens Talks To Delegates At Boys State

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Young people who want to change society should become politically involved to initiate changes from within the "system," Rep. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens said at Buckeye Boys State inaugural ceremonies Sunday.

The Middletown Republican told the 1,360 delegates to the 33rd annual American Legion event "the challenge of the 1960s was to put a man on the moon. But the challenge of the 1970s will be to put a man in Lake Erie and bring him back."

Nationalist candidate Tony Harris, 17, of Sandusky High School was sworn in as governor. He will be chief executive of the mythical state during its remaining five days. His brother Donald was Boys State governor in 1967. He was also a Nationalist candidate.

Harris won the office by a

The six associate judges are: Gary Battistelli, 16, Shady Side; Dean Kile, 16, St. Mary's; Michael Love, 16, Uhrichsville; Dennis McCabe, 17, Hamilton; Brian Newhouser, 17, Galion; and Russell Rucky, 16, Parma.

Those elected assume official duties today.

Republican gubernatorial candidate Roger Cloud, and his Democratic counterpart, John Gilligan, will address the delegates tonight.

Look In New Fall Fashions Centers On 'Separates'

By ANN HENCKEN
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—No wonder some women are confused about the fall fashion look. It is complicated.

A simple mini dress is easier to understand than the new sporty separates idea. Just zip up a mini dress and you're ready. But a layered ensemble demands more planning.

The blouse should be right with the mini skirt—the skirt just long enough. It should be split or cut well to give a young feeling. The whole thing should fit neatly under a wrap, whether it's a new poncho or a midi coat.

"What's Cooking in Fashion?" was the theme for Friday's round-up of fall fashions from J.P. Stevens & Co., a large textile firm. One answer was "Mixed Ingredients"—the layered idea.

Anne Fogarty interprets it in rust plaid jacket, rust midi jumper and yellow turtle neck. Sleeveless wraps can give the same separates message: a red fringed vest over turtle neck and jeans by Jack Winter—or sleeveless coat, hooded midtunic and stovepipe pants, a Vogue pattern.

The casual layered look is good for evening, too. On a dressier note, there is a grey flannel jumper with glitter belt and white satin shirt from Rembrandt. Adolphe Zelinka offers a black cape lined in red satin over short jacket and midskirt.

You can get a dress with a built-in separates look from designers such as Bill De Natale for Jeunesse. He makes dress bodice and skirt in contrasting colors or fabrics, like his dark and light harness dress for $60.

Separates can take jewelry well—like Maryll Lavin's chain belts at the waist or dog collars at the throat. Her silver-trimmed lucite shapes blend well with the new tailored look for evening.

The shows are part of the National Press Week held by the New York Couture Business Council Inc.

A simple mini dress is easier to understand than the new sporty separates idea. Just zip up a mini dress and you're ready. But a layered ensemble demands more planning.

The blouse should be right with the mini skirt — the skirt just long enough. It should be split or cut well to give a young feeling. The whole thing should fit neatly under a wrap, whether it's a new poncho or a midi coat.

"What's Cooking in Fashion?" was the theme for Friday's round-up of fall fashions from J.P. Stevens & Co., a large textile firm. One answer was "Mixed Ingredients"—the layered idea.

Anne Fogarty interprets it in rust plaid jacket, rust midi jumper and yellow turtle neck. Sleeveless wraps can give the same separates message: a red fringed vest over turtle neck and jeans by Jack Winter—or sleeveless coat, hooded midtunic and stovepipe pants, a Vogue pattern.

The casual layered look is good for evening, too. On a dressier note, there is a grey flannel jumper with glitter belt and white satin shirt from Rembrandt. Adolphe Zelinka offers a black cape lined in red satin over short jacket and midskirt.

You can get a dress with a built-in separates look from designers such as Bill De Natale for Jeunesse. He makes dress bodice and skirt in contrasting colors or fabrics, like his dark and light harness dress for $60.

Separates can take jewelry well—like Maryll Lavin's chain belts at the waist or dog collars at the throat. Her silver-trimmer lucite shapes blend well with the new tailored look for evening.

The shows are part of the National Press Week held by the New York Couture Business Council Inc.

AMA Eyes New Committee To Hear Gripes From Poor

CHICAGO (AP) — Leaders of the American Medical Association, accused of ignoring the medical problems of the needy, are considering the establishment of a committee to receive complaints from minorities and the poor.

The suggestion was made by Dr. Malcolm Todd, a former president of the California Medical Society, following a confused and raucous verbal confrontation with consumer groups Sunday at the opening of the AMA's annual meeting. Similar disruption marked last year's annual meeting in New York.

At the 1969 gathering, protesters broke into the meeting of the AMA's governing body, the House of Delegates.

This year, anticipating trouble, the AMA closed its House of Delegates sessions. Newsmen were permitted to watch proceedings on closed-circuit television.

To provide protest groups with a forum, the AMA named Dr. Todd to head a committee to hold a special hearings, the first for consumers in AMA history.

The consumer groups demanded instead that they be allowed to speak directly to the House of Delegates. A group of about 20 confronted security guards at the House session but left quietly after being refused permission to enter.

At the hearing, they elected their own chairman, J'm Wagner of Chicago, chairman of the Comprehensive City Health Planners Association.

Dr. Todd and Wagner then vied for leadership of the session, each holding a microphone.

One speaker, lawyer James Ghee of the National Welfare Rights Organization, read an "indictment" of AMA policies and practices, contending the AMA "has systematically failed to consider unethical practices of medicine in the denial of service to persons because of their inability to pay for such service other than through a publicly financed program."

Dr. Todd told a news conference later the AMA would reply to the "indictment" after it had a chance to study it.

In reply to one suggestion at the hearing, Dr. Todd said it might be a good idea for the AMA to set up some kind of "multi-ethnic council" to hear complaints from minorities and those who lack money to pay doctors.

On the subject of medical care as a right for everyone, Dr. Todd commented, "I think doctors recognize this."

Dr. Todd also said his special committee may recommend to the House of Delegates that a permanent committee be established to listen to consumer groups.

Rubber Workers Ratify Contract

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A new three-year contract between B. F. Goodrich Co. and the United Rubber Workers union was ratified Sunday by the 4,500 members of URW Local 5 in Akron.

The contract, covering some 11,000 workers in nine plants across the country, provides for wage increases totaling 82 cents an hour and improvements in fringe benefits for a total package which Goodrich says is worth $1.39 an hour over the three years.

Goodrich workers started returning to their jobs shortly after the URW and the company reached a tentative contract agreement June 12 in Columbus, ending a strike that started May 6. The old contract expired at midnight April 20.

Reds, Dodgers Split Twinbill

CINCINNATI (AP) — Next question, please!

When will Johnny Bench, 22-year-old star of the Cincinnati Reds, be available for pitching duty?

An unusual question, perhaps, when one is alluding to the finest young catcher to come along in many years in the major leagues. But not so unusual when you take into consideration the fact that Bench manned his fifth different position of the current season in helping his Western Division-leading Reds to a Sunday split with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Johnny was in right field Sunday — he previously had handled catching duties, first base, third base and center field this year — as his Reds bounced back from a 9-3 opening game loss to square matters by the identical score in the nightcap before a standing room only throng of 33,775, largest crowd to jam Crosley Field since 1947.

And all Bench did in that second game was clout his 24th homer to tie him with teammate Tony Perez for the league lead, along with hitting two doubles and a single that yielded four runs batted in.

John, labelled "one of the finest and most versatile athletes I've ever seen" by his manager, Sparky Anderson, now has accumulated 64 runs batted in, second only to Perez's 72, and hiked his batting average to .307. The only question that now remains about Bench, when the All-Star team is selected, is: What position will he play?

How did he feel in right field, where he made four catches, two of them of the one-handed variety? "Well, I've always been a one-handed catcher, so it's not too surprising that I'm a one-handed catcher in the outfield," Bench said.

John certainly must be popular with the fans in the bleachers and down the right field line, because he gifted them with no fewer than five baseballs during between-inning warmups.

Sharing the spotlight with Bench was Dodger righthander Don Sutton, who handcuffed hardhitting Cincinnati in the opener in becoming the first hurler since September 10, 1969, to defeat the Reds at home in a route-going performance.

"The secret to my win were those nine big runs the boys got me," 25-year-old Sutton pointed out. "My elbow stiffened up in the seventh and from then on it was a big finesse, so far as I was concerned."

"I'll take a victory over that club, whether it's by 9-3, 9-5 or 9-7, because they can really score. There isn't a man in their lineup who isn't a threat up there at the plate."

Forty-three straight games at Crosley Field had seen the starting pitcher kayoed or defeated since Clay Kirby of San Diego beat Cincinnati, 2-1, last September 10. Larry Dierker of Houston went the distance against the Reds last September 26, but he lost out, 4-3.

Cincinnati's stellar rookie righthander, Wayne Simpson, co-starred with Bench, his sometime batterymate, in the finale, as Simpson fanned eight batters in registering his tenth win in 11 starts and his seventh complete game of the campaign.

"My fast ball was good, but inconsistent," Simpson said. "And Corrales (second-string Catcher Pat Corrales) called a great game, besides doing a fine job at bat, with those three hits. "I'm learning something new everytime I go out there. And I'm beginning to get a better idea of how I'm going to try and handle the hitters."

A four-run rally in the seven inning of the opener helped clinch the decision for L.A. In the nightcap, Cincinnati broke a 2-2 tie with a five-run outburst in the sixth that was keyed by Rookie Hal McRae's leadoff homer, his seventh of the year.

Quarterson Wins 5th Atomic 100;

Ralph Quarterson, Sharon, Pa., streaked to victory in the feature race Friday night while Bob Crace, Chillicothe, took the feature Saturday in Atomic Speedway action.

Leading for all of the 100 laps and lapping all but the second and third place cars, Quarterson streaked to the victory worth $1,000 in the fifth annual Atomic 100 super-modified race at Atomic Speedway Friday night.

Taking advantage of his starting position on the front row, Quarterson never surrendered the lead in winning his second super-special race at Atomic. Quarterson was the winner of the first Tri-State Invitational two years ago and was second in the Buckeye and Atomic 100's and third in the Tri-State Invitational last year.

Jim Fizer of Cleveland started on the pole with a record qualifying time of 16:08 and finished sixth.

Audie Swartz of Wheelersburg, who was the defending champion in the race, was seventh.

Quarterson started lapping the slower cars by the 18th lap and by the end of the race had passed all of them except second place Al Franks of Fremont and Chuck Fletcher of Columbus.

Franks moved from his seventh starting position into second over Jim Meeker of Chillicothe on the 39th lap. Fletcher started 15th.

The race was slowed when Joe Frazier of Chillicothe spun out on the fifth lap and was stopped once when Jim Linder of Fremont left the track on the No. 1 turn and Fizer went with him to avoid a collision on the 29th lap.

Bob Morgan of Chillicothe had the third fastest qualifying time and finished next to last when he was forced out with mechanical problems.

Heat races went to Leo Saunders of Ironton, George Harbour of Huntington and Larry Miller of Bloomington, Ind., and the consi for all of the cars except the 20 fastest making the feature went to Allen Barr of Spencer, Ind.

Thirty-three cars from four states entered, Bob Crace pushed into the lead exactly at the halfway mark, emerged from a pileup undamaged and battled back to a strong challenge from Don Stump of Chillicothe at the finish line to win the super stocks special at Atomic Speedway Saturday night.

From his seventh place in the 20-car field, Crace was contesting Mike Wilson of Circleville for the lead by the fourth lap and finally succeeded just as the flagman brought out the signal for the midway point of the 35-lap feature. Three laps later Wilson was put in the rear by a spinout and finished fifth.

Ron Allen of Circleville took third place.

Both Crace and Stump started the main event with impressive records for the night. Crace took the second semi and was the runner-up in the second heat and Stump was the winner of the third heat and second behind Crace in the second semi.

Jerry Rucker of Waverly and Art Christman of Washington Court House were other heat winners, while Charles McCann of Piketon was picking up the other semi.

Wilson beat out George Bransom of Chillicothe on the last lap of the 15-lap consi, with Joe Teeters of Piketon third.

Johnny Fisher Wins At Scioto Downs

Johnny Fisher captured the fourth race at Scioto Downs Thursday night. The seven-year-old trotter covered the mile in 2:06 and paid $40.20, $9.60 and $6.00.

The brown gelding is owned by William Thomas Neal, Circleville, and was driven by Ronald Neal of Circleville.

The Eastern grass court tennis championships will be held at Orange, N. J., Aug. 24-30.

Local Players Pace Post 25 To 3 Wins

American Legion Post 25 had a big weekend of baseball, winning three games and dropping one.

Saturday they split a doubleheader at Cincinnati Midland, taking the first fray 3-1 in extra innings and losing the second 5-3.

Randy Alkire had three hits, Ty Ankrom had three and Billy Thomas picked up a hit for the Post 25 squad in the doubleheader. Bryce Brown hurled the final inning of the second affair and held Midland scoreless.

On Sunday they played host to New Richmond and ripped the river boys twice, 12-2 and 8-0.

Billy Thomas pasted Richmond pitching for six hits to lead the Post 25 nine in the twinbill. Alkire added two hits and Ankrom chipped in with one to aid the Court House attack.

Brown was on the mound in the second fray allowing no runs, two hits, walking one and sending nine New Richmond swingers back to the dugout empty handed.

He has now hurled 20 consecutive scoreless innings for the Legion club.

Washington has compiled an 11-8 record for the season.

SPORTS Highlights

MEXICO CITY, (AP) — World soccer champions Brazil today prepared to return home to a triumphant reception and national holiday after retiring the Jules Rimet Cup for keeps in a finals game against Italy where attacking genius triumphed over defensive tactics.

Italian Coach Ferruccio Valcareggi glumly paid Brazil the best compliment in his dressing room after Italy's 4-1 defeat.

"The Brazilians played as if they had wings," Valcareggi said. And they did.

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — Athens Country Club won team play in the Southeastern Ohio Golf Association tournament with a score of 925, while Marvin Hughes of Lancaster scored 146 on 36 holes for medalist honors.

Defending champion Lancaster took runner-up spot in team play with 930, and Chillicothe placed third with 935.

Tony Jacklin Wins U.S. Open With 281 Total

CHASKA, Minn. (AP) — Tony Jacklin no longer bends over a putt and worries about bringing home the grocery money.

The 25-year-old Englishman said the absence of financial pressure helped him win the 70th U.S. Open Golf Championship Sunday with his fourth straight subpar round, a two-under 70 for a 72-hole score of 281.

"In the 1967 Canadian Open," said Jacklin, "I was two strokes behind Billy Casper and started thinking about that $30,000. I got thinking dollars on every shot. I lost."

Jacklin did not have money on his mind when he went into the U. S. Open final round over the par 72, 7,151-yard Hazeltine National Golf Course with a four-stroke lead over controversial Dave Hill.

"When I won the British Open last year," said the dark-haired Briton, "I became financially secure for life. I didn't think much about money this week. I know this might be worth a million dollars to me."

"I might go out and buy a new car and a television set."

The Open title was worth $30,000 in prize money and Mark McCormack, Jacklin's manager, estimates the championship is worth a million dollars.

Jacklin, the first Englishman to raise the union jack over the U.S. Open since Ted Ray in 1920, credited his deadly putter with settling him down on the ninth hole of Sunday's round after bogeys on seven and eight. He took a birdie from No. 9 with a 25-foot putt.

Jacklin still was not convinced that Hill, who boiled in controversy when he lambasted the Hazeltine course and architect Robert Trent Jones earlier on the week, was all the way out of it.

But Hill bogeyed two of the last three holes and finished seven strokes back after his 73. Hill, fined $150 for his criticism, won $15,000.

Bob Charles, the New Zealand left-hander, tied the course record with a five-under 67 and deadlocked Bob Lunn, who had 70, at 289. Each won $9,000.

Ken Still's 71 gave him 291, Miller Barber was at 292 and Gay Brewer 293. Lee Trevino and Billy Casper were among the 294's.

Golf's big three of Gary Player, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus were never really in it after the first round and won a combined purse of $2,725.

Braves Win; Aaron Tops Gehrig

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Hank Aaron has rifled a double-barreled salvo across the generation gap... catching Lou Gehrig and Larry Dierker in the same field of fire.

Aaron drilled two home runs off 23-year-old Dierker Sunday to pass Hall of Famer Gehrig in the all-time extra base hit parade and lead the Atlanta Braves to 6-4 victory over the Houston Astros.

The venerable Atlanta slugger hit two-run homers in the first and fourth innings for a total of 1,191 extra-base blows... one more than Gehrig amassed in his legendary career with the New York Yankees. Aaron is now fourth on the lifetime list, behind Stan Musial, Babe Ruth and Willie Mays.

Dierker has been the victim of seven of Aaron's 576 career homers, but Hammerin' Hank gave the shell-shocked young fireballer a paternal pat on the back after contributing to his sixth straight setback.

"I'd have to put Dierker in a class with Tom Seaver of New York," Aaron said. "As far as those seven homers go, I guess I just took advantage of him when he was a youngster."

"I have to, because one day they are gonna take advantage of me."

Elsewhere in the National League, St. Louis swept a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs 3-0 and 3-2; Cincinnati divided a pair of 9-3 verdicts with Los Angeles; San Francisco whipped San Diego 7-2 and Montreal edged Pittsburgh 3-2. The Philadelphia-New York Mets game was rained out.

Aaron's 21st and 22nd homers of the season and Rico Carty's No. 17 blast helped Jim Nash, 9-2, subdue the Astros with last-out help from Bob Priddy.

"That guy there is the all-time greatest," Nash marveled, pointing a finger at 36-year-old Aaron, who was soaking his feet in a tub of ice water after his Fathers Day fling.

Steve Carlton fired a six-hit shutout in the opener and Bob Gibson checked the Cubs on seven hits in the second game as the Cardinals climbed within 4 1/2 games of the East Division lead.

"You don't get tired of catching a couple of pitchers like that," said Joe Torre, who worked 18 innings behind the plate and won the nightcap with an eighth inning homer. "They were right in there all day. I hardly had to move at all."

Rookie Wayne Simpson breezed to his 10th victory against one loss as the Reds rebounded to paste Los Angeles after the Dodgers handed Jim Merritt, 11-6, his third straight loss in the opener.

Johnny Bench led Cincinnati's second-game assault with a two-run double and a two-run homer that tied him with teammate Tony Perez for the major league lead at 24. Wes Parker and Jim Lefebvre had three hits apiece for the Dodgers in the opener.

The Giants broke a 22 tie on Hal Lanier's run-scoring infield single in the sixth and went on to rip San Diego behind Don McMahon's hitless relief pitching over the last four innings.

Rich Nye, making his first start for the Expos after being recalled from the minors, limited Pittsburgh to seven hits and catcher John Bateman delivered the winning run with a fifth inning single.

Reds, Dodgers Split Twinbill

CINCINNATI (AP) — Next question, please!

When will Johnny Bench, 22-year-old star of the Cincinnati Reds, be available for pitching duty?

An unusual question, perhaps,

when one is alluding to the finest young catcher to come along in many years in the major leagues. But not so unusual when you take into consideration the fact that Bench manned his fifth different position of the current season in helping his Western Division-leading Reds to a Sunday split with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Johnny was in right field Sunday — he previously had handled catching duties, first base, third base and center field this year — as his Reds bounced back from a 9-3 opening game loss to square matters by the identical score in the nightcap before a standing room only throng of 33,775, largest crowd to jam Crosley Field since 1947.

And all Bench did in that second game was clout his 24th homer to tie him with teammate Tony Perez for the league lead, along with hitting two doubles and a single that yielded four runs batted in.

John, labelled "one of the finest and most versatile athletes I've ever seen" by his manager, Sparky Anderson, now has accumulated 64 runs batted in, second only to Perez's 72, and hiked his batting average to .307. The only question that now remains about Bench, when the All-Star team is selected, is: What position will he play?

SPORTS Highlights

MEXICO CITY, (AP) — World soccer champions Brazil today prepared to return home to a triumphant reception and national holiday after retiring the Jules Rimet Cup for keeps in a final game against Italy where attacking genius triumphed over defensive tactics.

Italian Coach Ferruccio Valcareggi glumly paid Brazil the best compliment in his dressing room after Italy's 4-1 defeat.

"The Brazilians played as if they had wings," Valcareggi said. And they did.

WELLSTON, Ohio (AP) — Athens Country Club won team play in the Southeastern Ohio Golf Association tournament with a score of 925, while Marvin Hughes of Lancaster scored 146 on 36 holes for medalist honors.

Defending champion Lancaster took runner-up spot in team play with 930, and Chillicothe placed third with 935.

In Memoriam

In memory of my son and grandson, Dudley Myers, who passed away 2 years ago on June 22, who is gone but will never be forgotten.
Mother, Mrs. Everett Diehl
In memory of Lawrence W. Reid on this his 47th birthday.
Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall.
You had a kindly word for all
And died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and stilled the heart.
That loved us well and true.
Ah, bitter was the trial to part
From one so good as you.
You are not forgotten loved one
Nor will you ever be.
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore.
As time goes by we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face
No one can fill your vacant place.
Sadly missed by wife, Joan children Bruce, Brenda and Brad

Tribe Loses; Gutierrez Sets Record On Hits

By HERSCHEL NISSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers call Cesar Gutierrez "Coco," but they may have to change his nickname to "7-Up."

The peppery shortstop from Venezuela wrote himself into the record books Sunday when he became the first player in modern major league history to get seven consecutive hits in a game—six singles and a double—as the Tigers edged Cleveland 9-8 in the 12-inning nightcap of a doubleheader.

Gutierrez sat out the opener, won by the Tigers 7-2.

"When I got the sixth hit," said Gutierrez, "coach Wally Moses said I had some kind of record. I said I'll try for seven, but never in my life did I ever think of a record."

He got it in the 12th after Mickey Stanley homered to break an 8-8 tie—an infield single off the glove of pitcher Phil Hennigan. The only other player ever to get seven consecutive hits in one game was Wilbert Robinson of the Baltimore National League club on June 10, 1892. He also had six singles and a double.

John Burnett of Cleveland set the record of nine hits in one game July 10, 1932. He went 9-for-11—seven singles and two doubles—in an 18-inning contest, but the hits weren't consecutive. The only other player ever to collect as many as seven hits in a game was Detroit's Rocky Colavito, who went 7-for-10—six singles and a triple—on June 24, 1962.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore beat Washington 4-2. The New York Yankees outslugged Boston 14-10 in 11 innings. Minnesota trounced Kansas City 11-2. California shaded Milwaukee 6-5 in 10 innings and Oakland took two from the Chicago White Sox 6-3 and 5-4.

Gutierrez, a 155-pounder who was sold from San Francisco to Detroit last September, raised his average from .226 to .255 as he looped a single to center in the first inning, singled to left in the third, singled to deep short in the fifth, doubled to left in the seventh, singled to right in the eighth and beat out a hit behind second base in the 10th before his record-breaker.

"I've been hitting the ball good but I haven't been getting on," Gutierrez said. "Sometimes you have to be lucky. I swing a heavy 36-ounce bat and I do not go for the long ball. I hit bloopers."

Gutierrez' eighth-inning single tied the score and enabled him to come to bat twice more and earn a niche in baseball history. Clubhouse man John Hand must have known something when he issued Gutierrez uniform number 7.

Jim Northrup hit a pair of two-run homers and Al Kaline hit one as the Tigers rallied from an early 6-1 deficit. Tony Horton belted a grand slam and Chuck Hinton and Ted Uhlaender hit solo shots for the Indians.

The Tigers snapped Cleveland's seven-game winning streak in the opener as Norm cash homered and Elliott Maddox, Dick McAuliffe and Stanney each drove in two runs.

Dave McNally needed relief from Pete Richert in the ninth, registered his 10th career victory as the Orioles completed a four-game sweep of the Senators and maintained their three-game lead over the Yankees in the AL East.

Trading 2-1, the Orioles pushed across three runs in the third against Dick Suen on a pair of walks and singles by Brooks Robinson, Terry Crowley and Dave Johnson.

The Yankees erupted for six runs in the 11th inning to beat the Sox for their 14th win in the last 17 games. Danny Cater started the uprising with a single, his fifth straight hit, and singles by Thurman Munson and Ron Hansen loaded the bases.

Jerry Kenney and relief pitcher Andy McDaniel cracked two-run singles and the final two runs came around on Horace Clarke's single, his fourth in the last 17 games. Danny Cater started the uprising with a single, his fifth straight hit, and singles by Thurman Munson and Ron Hansen loaded the bases.

Harmon Killebrew belted his 17th homer and Leo Cardenas slammed a three-run double as the Twins, aided by five Kansas City errors, ended their longest losing streak of the year at three games. Jim Perry, 10-5, picked up the win, with help from Ron Perranoski in the seventh.

The Angels fell behind the Brewers 5-4 in the top of the 10th on Mike Hegan's double and Bob Burda's single, but rallied for two runs in the bottom half on Jim Fregosi's single, an error by left fielder Russ Snyder, Alex Johnson's bloop double and Jay Johnstone's double.

Fregosi homered for the Angels, who tied the score in the eighth on Joe Azcue's double, a sacrifice and Sandy Alomar's two-out single.

Sal Bando drove in three runs with a pair of homers and Bert Campaneris also homered for the A's in their second-game victory. In the opener, Catfish Hunter became the AL's first 11-game winner with an eight-hitter, although tagged for homers by Bill Melton and Syd O'Brien.

Carlos Sees Record Runs In AAU Events

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — John Carlos, current world's fastest human, declares that if someone beats him at 100 yards in the AAU Championships this weekend, "he'll have to best 9.1."

Since Carlos shares the world record at that time with several others, the interpretation has him aiming at lowering the mark.

He won both the 100 and 220 on Saturday at the Orange County Invitational meet in 9.3 and 20.4 seconds.

"I'm expecting some great things at the AAU," said Carlos.

Southpaw Mickey Lolich of the Detroit Tigers played Connie Mack League baseball when he was a youngster.

Gilligan And Metzenbaum Rap State, National GOP

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Democratic candidates for state and national offices rapped the Republican administrations in Columbus and Washington Saturday.

Senatorial candidate Howard Metzenbaum called on Ohio's congressional candidates at a workshop here to join him in trying to "de-escalate the arms race and defuse tension in the world."

The workshop was called by the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Gubernatorial candidate John J. Gilligan told Muskingum County Young Democrats in Zanesville, "once again the state administration and the legislature have failed to improve the quality of education in the state."

Gilligan charged that the Rhodes administration promised eight years ago "that the state would support local school districts on at least a 50 - 50 basis. The latest figures show that in 1969-70, the statewide support average was only 32 per cent."

Gilligan said it is time the state begin meeting its responsibilities in education, in controlling environmental quality and in making the streets and cities safe.

Metzenbaum also touched on problems in the cities when he referred to development of the multiple warhead missiles in North Dakota and said "What this country desperately needs is not a multiple warhead missile, but a multiple approach to healing our strained economy and decaying cities."

Metzenbaum told the congressional hopefuls his work in the Senate "would be nullified by the House unless it is supported by Democratic congressmen unafraid to confront the difficult issues with candor and integrity." He urged the candidates to emphasize in their campaigns a "re-ordering of our national priorities."

College Fee Cost Rise Compiled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio college students attending state-supported schools will pay about $150 more for their education next year than they did this school year. Students at private institutions face about a $250 increase.

The Ohio College Association surveyed 47 private and 18 state-assisted colleges among its membership and found that the average 1970-71 bill for tuition, fees, room and board will amount to $1,676 at state universities and $2,672 at private schools.

The total cost for a school year ranges from $1,375 to $1,830 at state institutions and from $1,581 to $3,750 at the independents.

Private school students face the biggest percentage increase — 11.3 per cent for tuition and 6.8 per cent for room and board — a total of 8.9 per cent more. State-supported schools plan to increase tuition an average of 5 per cent and room and board 9.5 per cent for a total hike of 7.9 per cent.

In addition, the association said, textbooks and incidentals also will cost more, running the cost of a college degree in Ohio to a minimum of at least $6,000 and a maximum of more than $15,000 — with no extras.

Arab Leaders Meet, Eye Strategy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arab leaders met in Libya Sunday and apparently discussed ways of coordinating activities of the numerous Palestinian guerrilla groups who use their countries as springboards for raids against Israel.

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser was among the heads of state and others who assembled in Tripoli, ostensibly to celebrate evacuation of American and British military bases in the North African desert nation.

The Libyan news agency said "the Palestinian question and the great number of commando organizations" were discussed. Representatives of the Joint Committee of the Palestinian Guerrilla Organization attended.

Yasir Arafat, the chief guerrilla leader, did not attend but he sent the conference a message urging it to intervene to prevent new fighting between the guerrillas and the Jordanian army.

"The situation is so grave that a new eruption is likely at any moment," said Arafat, adding that the cease-fire agreement is being "seriously endangered by provocative acts by those who engineered the previous clashes."

Presumably he was referring to antiguerrilla elements in the Jordanian army. But dissension has also been prevalent in recent months between moderate and radical factions of the Palestinian guerrillas raiding Israel from Jordan and Lebanon.

Attending the Tripoli meeting in addition to Nasser were Hussein, the Libyan leader Col. Muammar Kadafi, President Hassan El Bakr of Iraq, Syrian President Nureddin El Atssi and Lebanese President Dr.

Charles Helou Kuwait, Sudan, Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco sent lesser ranking representatives.

Meanwhile, along the battle lines, the Israeli air force kept up its daily raids on Egyptian positions along the Suez Canal.

The Egyptian military command said there were two five-hour raids Sunday, with 36 Phantom and Skyhawk jets taking part in the first and 20 Skyhawks in the second.

Israel said all its planes returned safely.

Arab terrorists threw a grenade at a tourist bus in the occupied city of Hebron Sunday, but it missed and wounded two Arabs, the Israeli military command said. They also reported a grenade was thrown at a bank in Khn Unis, in the Gaz strip, but said it caused no damage or injuries.

Israeli newspapers reported today that their government was fighting strong American pressure to agree to territorial concessions to the Arabs.

The papers said Washington was holding up agreement to sell Israel more warplanes until Israel announces acceptance of the U.N. Security Council resolution of November 1967. The resolution calls on Israel to withdraw from Arab land occupied in the 1967 Middle East war and on the Arabs to make peace with Israel.

Israel officials declined comment on the newspaper reports.

New Antiwar Group Formed In Cleveland; Ends Meeting

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A new antiwar group, the Peace Action Coalition, was formed here Sunday as the National Emergency Conference Against the Cambodia-Laos-Vietnam War concluded a three-day meeting.

One of its first tasks will be to enlist rank-and-file labor support for a series of antiwar demonstrations scheduled Oct. 31.

Several union members were among speakers at the conference and approximately 200 unionists attended the sessions. "This was the broadest antiwar conference ever held," said Jerry Gordon of Cleveland, an official in the new group.

"It has established as the keystone of the antiwar movement an alliance and coalition of labor and students," he added.

A resolution calling for the demonstrations was passed over the objections of militants from the Students for a Democratic Society and the Progressive Labor Party.

The militants wanted it to include attacks on liberal politicians as well as the Nixon Administration.

The resolution, passed by a show of hands following heated debate, calls for locally-oriented protests Aug. 6-9. Those dates mark the 25th anniversary of the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Gordon said all antiwar organizations, including the militant groups, would be welcome in the new movement if they could endorse its platform.

The organization will be dedicated to peaceful, organized and disciplined protests, he said.

"Confrontational adventures hurt the movement by alienating otherwise sympathetic sections of the population, particularly labor..." he added.

Cities scheduled for mass demonstrations Oct. 31 include San Francisco, Seattle, Chicago, Detroit, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Denver, Atlanta, Cleveland or Columbus and Austin or Houston.

Police Cadets Get Character Training

CONSETT, England (AP) — Police cadets are getting character-training at the Roman Catholic Passionist monastery of Minsteracres near here. In groups of four and of any denomination they briefly share the lives of the priests and novices while learning something of the underlying principles of discipline and service. "We are not imposing strict monastic rules for the cadets," said Father Colum Devine, the Superior. "The idea is to give them plenty of healthy work and let them see what kind of work we do."

12 Arrested In Russian Skyjack Bid

MOSCOW (AP)—Jews trying to escape to Israel were among 12 persons arrested last week for the first airline hijacking plot reported in the Soviet Union, according to Jewish informants in Moscow.

The newspaper Leningrad Pravda gave this two-sentence report of the incident: "On June 15, a group of criminals trying to seize a scheduled plane was detained. An investigation is being conducted."

The informants in Moscow said 12 persons, 19 to 45 years old, were arrested at the Leningrad airport before they attempted to board the Aeroflot plane for a flight to Karelia, near the Finnish border.

Six of those detained were said to be among 37 signers of a recent letter to United Nations Secretary-General U Thant appealing for his aid in getting Soviet authorities to permit them to go to Israel. The non-Jews in the group were trying to flee to the West, the Moscow sources said.

Among those reported arrested were three men who had served time together in labor camps for anti-Soviet propaganda in the 1960s, and a married couple who applied twice for exit visas to Israel and were turned down.

Under the Soviet criminal code, fleeing abroad is treason and is punishable by 10 to 15 years in prison.

The Soviet government has allowed a few elderly Jews to leave the country but has otherwise banned virtually all emigration to Israel. Jewish groups in Leningrad and Moscow have become more outspoken against the Soviet government lately, claiming they are persecuted.

Fabrics Act Draws Fire Of Company

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A marketing company representative said here Sunday that the 1967 Flammable Fabrics Act could require a 100 per cent change in the composition of children's clothing.

Fred Fortess of the Celanese Fibers Marketing Co. told 700 delegates at the annual meeting of Home Economists in Business that any "significant implementation" of the act would result in changes "either through expensive finishes for cotton and rayon or through the selection of new flame-resistant fibers for these end uses."

Fortess said that a campaign of fire prevention education would be more effective in reducing burns and death than looking to fabrics as a major control.

The meeting, which ends today as the five-day annual meeting of the parent American Home Economics Association begins, included a report Sunday on new products by Miss Ann Arnott of Redbook magazine.

Miss Arnott, who said that microwave cooking would become commonplace in the 1970's, described a trash compactor which will squeeze a week's trash to less than one-fourth of its original size, a hot lather dispenser for handwashing and plug-in pans to replace the kitchen range.

Dr. Philip Lewis, president of Instructional Dynamics, Inc., of Chicago, said that combined satellite-cable television systems would be operative within two to four years and should upgrade instructional programming "for every level and segment of our national population."

Graduation 'Unusual'

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP)—Graduates wore faded blue denim and overalls. Others carried banners supporting the Black Panther party. The commencement began with meditation to the sound of an electric tambourine.

As more than 400 graduates received their degrees from Antioch College President Dr. James Dixon, girls stopped to kiss him, men hugged him and one slipped him a red book of quotations of Chairman Mao.

Antioch's unconventional commencement Saturday continued after Paul Goodman, author of the novel "Growing Up Absurd," and Michael Motley, a representative of the National Committee to Combat Fascism, addressed the graduates.

In Quaker meeting fashion, a number of students then came before the assembly to respond to the speakers' comments.

None of the graduating students wore caps and gowns—a practice abandoned several years ago at Antioch. The school awarded 327 bachelor's degrees, 123 masters of arts in teaching degrees and 21 master of science in teaching degrees.

Antioch's unconventional commencement Saturday continued after Paul Goodman, author of the novel "Growing Up Absurd," and Michael Motley, a representative of the National Committee to Combat Fascism, addressed the graduates.

In Quaker meeting fashion, a number of students then came before the assembly to respond to the speakers' comments.

None of the graduating students wore caps and gowns—a practice abandoned several years ago at Antioch. The school awarded 327 bachelor's degrees, 123 masters of arts in teaching degrees and 21 master of science in teaching degrees.

New Antiwar Group Formed In Cleveland; Ends Meeting

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A new antiwar group, the Peace Action Coalition, was formed here Sunday as the National Emergency Conference Against the Cambodia-Laos-Vietnam War concluded a three-day meeting.

One of its first tasks will be to enlist rank-and-file labor support for a series of antiwar demonstrations scheduled Oct. 31.

Several union members were among speakers at the conference and approximately 200 unionists attended the sessions. "This was the broadest antiwar conference ever held," said Jerry Gordon of Cleveland, an official in the new group.

"It has established as the keystone of the antiwar movement an alliance and coalition of labor and students," he added.

A resolution calling for the demonstrations was passed over the objections of militants from the Students for a Democratic Society and the Progressive Labor Party.

The militants wanted it to include attacks on liberal politicians as well as the Nixon Administration.

The resolution, passed by a show of hands following heated debate, calls for locally-oriented protests Aug. 6-9. Those dates mark the 25th anniversary of the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Gordon said all antiwar organizations, including the militant groups, would be welcome in the new movement if they could endorse its platform.

The organization will be dedicated to peaceful, organized and disciplined protests, he said.

"Confrontational adventures hurt the movement by alienating otherwise sympathetic sections of the population, particularly labor..." he added.

Cities scheduled for mass demonstrations Oct. 31 include San Francisco, Seattle, Chicago, Detroit, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Denver, Atlanta, Cleveland or Columbus and Austin or Houston.

Police Cadets Get Character Training
CONSETT, England (AP) — Police cadets are getting character-training at the Roman Catholic Passionist monastery of Minsteracres near here. In groups of four and of any denomination they briefly share the lives of the priests and novices while learning something of the underlying principles of discipline and service. "We are not imposing strict monastic rules for the cadets," said Father Colum Devine, the Superior. "The idea is to give them plenty of healthy work and let them see what kind of work we do."

Under the Soviet criminal code, fleeing abroad is treason and is punishable by 10 to 15 years in prison.

The Soviet government has allowed a few elderly Jews to leave the country but has otherwise banned virtually all emigration to Israel. Jewish groups in Leningrad and Moscow have become more outspoken against the Soviet government lately, claiming they are persecuted.

12 Arrested In Russian Skyjack Bid
MOSCOW (AP)—Jews trying to escape to Israel were among 12 persons arrested last week for the first airline hijacking plot reported in the Soviet Union, according to Jewish informants in Moscow.

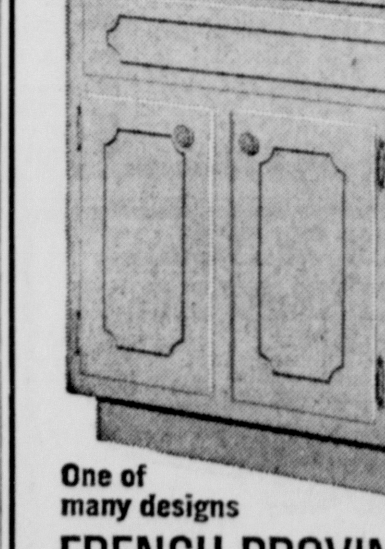

The newspaper Leningrad Pravda gave this two-sentence report of the incident: "On June 15, a group of criminals trying to seize a scheduled plane was detained. An investigation is being conducted."

The informants in Moscow said 12 persons, 19 to 45 years old, were arrested at the Leningrad airport before they attempted to board the Aeroflot plane for a flight to Karelia, near the Finnish border.

Six of those detained were said to be among 37 signers of a recent letter to United Nations Secretary-General U Thant appealing for his aid in getting Soviet authorities to permit them to go to Israel. The non-Jews in the group were trying to flee to the West, the Moscow sources said.

Among those reported arrested were three men who had served time together in labor camps for anti-Soviet propaganda in the 1960s, and a married couple who applied twice for exit visas to Israel and were turned down.
